Pressure Cooker; This is an inspirational documentary with built-in drama, suspense, and heart. Mrs. Stephenson is the culinary arts teacher at an inner-city high school in Philadelphia. She is driven to prepare her senior students for a competition that gives college scholarships to promising students: she demands their attention, their time, and their respect. In return, she gives them love, confidence, and skills -- she seems to have a unique knowledge of the teenage heart. The film follows three students who are highly motivated by their personal circumstances to succeed and find their way to college, away from their limited-opportunity neighborhood. Not rated, 1 hour 40 minutes, no subtitles
